THE STATE OF TEXAS	↑	IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF

MALCOLM E. WALLACE	↑	98TH. JUDICIAL DISTRICT

To the Honorable Judge of said Court:

Now comes the defendant at the close of the State's testimony and after the State had announced that it rested, and before offering any evidence in reply, and moves that the Court grant an instructed verdict in this case in favor of the defendant and direct the jury to bring in a verdict of Not Guilty, on the following grounds:

1.

The evidence is wholly insufficient to make a case against the defendant.

2.

There is no evidence in the record upon which the jury may legally base a judgment of Guilty.

3.

The circumstances which the State has offered in this case are insufficient to establish to a moral certainty and beyond a reasonable doubt the guilt of the accused, and to eliminate all reasonable hypotheses other than the guilt of the accused.

4.

The evidence in this case offered by the State, as a matter of law, raises a reasonable doubt as to the guilt of the accused, and as a matter of law the defendant is entitled to an acquittal.

WHEREFORE, defendant prays the Court to instruct a verdict in this case and direct the jury to return a verdict of Not Guilty.

THE STATE OF TEXAS		IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF
vs.		TRAVIS COUNTY, TEXAS
MALCOLM E. WALLACE		98TH. JUDICIAL DISTRICT

CHARGE OF THE COURT

Gentlemen of the Jury:

The defendant, Malcolm E. Wallace, stands charged by indictment with the offense of the murder of John Douglas Kinser, alleged to have been committed in the County of Travis and State of Texas on or about the 22nd day of October, 1951, which indictment alleges that the defendant did then and there voluntarily and with malice aforethought kill John Douglas Kinser by shooting him with a gun.

To this charge the defendant has pleaded "not guilty."

I give you in charge as the law applicable to this case the following:

1.

Whoever shall voluntarily kill any person within this State shall be guilty of murder. Murder is distinguishable from every other species of homicide by the absence of circumstances which reduce the offense to negligent homicide or which excuse or justify the killing; "voluntarily" means an act proceeding from the will, done or produced by one's own free will, accord or choice.

2.

Murder, as above defined, may be committed either with or without malice aforethought. When murder is committed with malice aforethought, the punishment for such murder shall be death, or confinement in the penitentiary for life, or confinement in the penitentiary for any term of not less than two years. When murder is committed, but not upon malice aforethought, the punishment for such murder is confinement in the penitentiary for not less than two years nor more than five years.

3.

Malice aforethought is the voluntary and intentional doing of an unlawful act by one of sound mind and discretion, and with the purpose, means and ability to accomplish the reasonable and probable consequences of the act, and includes all those states of mind under which the killing of a person takes place without any cause which will in law justify, excuse or extenuate the homicide. It is that condition of mind which shows a heart regardless of social duty and fatally bent on mischief, the existence of which is inferred from acts committed or words spoken.

4.

Murder without malice is a voluntary homicide committed without justification or excuse, under the immediate influence of a sudden passion arising from an adequate cause, by which it is meant, such cause as would commonly produce a degree of anger, rage, resentment or terror in a person of ordinary temper, sufficient to render the mind incapable of cool reflection.

5.

In any murder case the punishment cannot be greater than confinement in the penitentiary for a period of five years, unless from all the facts and circumstances in the case, the jury believes from the evidence, beyond a reasonable doubt, that the defendant is guilty of murder as herein defined, and that the defendant in killing the deceased, if he did, was prompted by and acted with his malice aforethought, as that term has been defined in paragraph 3 of this charge.

In this case the State relies for the conviction of the defendant upon what is known as circumstantial evidence.

In this connection, the jury are charged that in order to warrant a conviction of a crime on circumstantial evidence, each fact necessary to the conclusion sought to be established must be proved by competent ^{and legal} evidence beyond a reasonable doubt; all the facts (that is, the facts necessary to the conclusion) must be consistent with each other and with the main fact sought to be proved; and the circumstances, taken together, must be of a conclusive nature, leading, on the whole, to a satisfactory conclusion, and producing, in effect, a reasonable and moral certainty that the accused, and no other person, committed the offense charged.

But in such cases it is not sufficient that the circumstances coincide with, account for, and therefore render probable, the guilt of the defendant. They must exclude, to a moral certainty, every other reasonable hypothesis, except the defendant's guilt; and unless they do so, beyond a reasonable doubt, you will find the defendant "not guilty".

You are further instructed as a part of the law in this case that the indictment against the defendant is not evidence in the case, and that the true and sole use of the indictment is to charge the offense, and to inform the defendant of the offense alleged against him. The reading of the indictment to the jury in the statement of the case of the State against the defendant can not be considered as a fact or circumstance against the defendant in your deliberations.

8.

You are further instructed as a part of the law in this case that the application for a suspended sentence as filed by the defendant herein is no evidence of nor can it be considered by you as tending to show the guilt, if any, of the defendant, and you will not consider said application for suspended sentence in deliberating upon the guilt or innocence of the defendant.

9.

In a criminal case the law permits the defendant to testify in his own behalf; but the same law provides that his failure to testify shall not be considered as a circumstance against him. You will, therefore, not consider the failure of the defendant to testify as a circumstance against him; and you will not in your retirement to consider of your verdict, allude to, comment on or in any manner refer to the fact that the defendant has not testified, nor will you refer to or discuss any matter not before you in evidence.

10.

You are further instructed that if you have a reasonable doubt as to the presence of the defendant at the time and place of the alleged killing you will acquit the defendant.

11.

(a) Now, bearing in mind the foregoing definitions, if you believe from the evidence, beyond a reasonable doubt, that the defendant, Malcolm E. Wallace, on or about the 22nd day of October, 1951, in the County of Travis and State of Texas, did voluntarily and with malice aforethought kill John Douglas Kinser by shooting him with a gun, as alleged in the indictment, then you will find the defendant guilty of murder with malice aforethought and assess his punishment at death or confinement in the State penitentiary for life or for any term of years not less than two; but if you do not so believe from the evidence, beyond a reasonable doubt, or if you have a reasonable doubt thereof, you will acquit the defendant of the offense of murder with malice aforethought, and proceed to consider the following:

(b) If you believe from the evidence, beyond a reasonable doubt, that the defendant, Malcolm E. Wallace, on or about the 22nd day of October, 1951, in the County of Travis and State of Texas, did voluntarily but without malice aforethought kill John Douglas Kinser by shooting him with a gun, as alleged in the indictment, then you will find the defendant guilty of murder without malice aforethought and assess his punishment at confinement in the State penitentiary for any term of years not more than five and not less than two; but if you do not so believe from the evidence beyond a reasonable doubt, or if you have a reasonable doubt thereof, you will acquit the defendant and say by your verdict "not guilty".

In this case the defendant has filed an application and affidavit in terms of the law asking for a suspension of his sentence in the event he is convicted, and alleges that he has never before been convicted of a felony in this State or in any other state.

Our statute provides that where a person is charged with the offense of murder, and the jury finds him guilty and assess the punishment at imprisonment in the penitentiary for any term of years not more than five; and they further find that the defendant has never been convicted of a felony in this State or in any other state, the jury may cause the sentence to be suspended during the good behavior of the defendant.

By the term "good behavior" is meant that the defendant shall not be convicted of a felony, or any character or grade of the offenses of theft, embezzlement, swindling, conversion, theft by bailee, or any fraudulent acquisition of personal property.

Now, if you shall find the defendant guilty of the offense of murder, under the instructions herein given you, and if you shall assess his punishment at confinement in the penitentiary for any term of years not more than five, and you further find that he has never been convicted of a felony in this State or in any other state, you may, in your discretion, cause the sentence to be suspended during the good behavior of the defendant; and in case you desire to suspend the sentence of this defendant, let your verdict show that you find the defendant has never been convicted of a felony in this State or in any other state, and further show that you recommend the suspension of the sentence.

In all criminal cases the burden of proof is on the State. The defendant is presumed to be innocent until his guilt is established by legal evidence, beyond a reasonable doubt; and in case you have a reasonable doubt as to the defendant's guilt, you will acquit him and say by your verdict "not guilty".

You are the exclusive judges of the facts proved, of the credibility of the witnesses and of the weight to be given to the testimony, but you are bound to receive the law from the Court, which is herein given you, and be governed thereby.
